MANAGING MANY PROJECTS

Are you overwhelmed with too many projects going at one time?

"Managing quilting projects can be overwhelming at times. For passionate quilters, it's not uncommon to have a collection of unfinished or planned projects that seem to multiply faster than you can complete them."

Excerpt from blog post on www.quiltingrebel.com

Manage your projects and complete them too!

First. It's absolutely ok to have multiple projects going at once. I think many of us quilters do this. But let's manage those projects and feel a sense of accomplishment at the same time!

CHOOSE 3 PROJECTS

Choose up to 3 projects that you want to work on. Pick ones that you feel pulled towards, enjoy, or need to finish for a gift or has a deadline.

PUT ALL OTHER PROJECTS AWAY

You don't want them in your immediate sight because they could cause you overwhelm or distract you and cause you to switch between too many projects again.

ONLY ADD A NEW PROJECT WHEN THERE IS ROOM

You must complete one project so that a space opens up for an different one.

Also, put a little sticky or note somewhere that says, "Finished Feels So Good!" or you can print and cut out the graphic at the bottom of this page. That will help remind you that when projects are completed, it does feel amazing!

If you need extra space to just keep track of those projects waiting for you, use this table to help.
